The Institute of Purchasing & Supply of Hong Kong (IPSHK) Online Learning / Sharing

Topic: Procurement Ethics

The pandemic-related disruptions in the previous years has reshaped management's thinking on supply chain resilience and the importance of supply chain transparency for risk mitigation. The demand for procurement professionals and advanced competencies have increased. In view of this, IPSHK will launch a series of online learning / sharing sessions on various procurement principles and practices. Our objectives are to further enhance competencies through providing knowledge and sharing practices on various aspects of supply chain management.

You are welcome to enrol the first Online Sharing / Learning session, which focuses on Procurement Ethics. Our speaker, Ms Wendy Chan will share with participants the importance of procurement ethics and practices to uplift procurement ethics in Procurement function.

Agenda:

1. Discuss the importance of procurement ethics
2. Discuss the practices to uplift procurement ethics
3. Highlight local advisory / support on procurement ethics
4. Some best practices sharing

Highlights:

Speaker:

Ms Wendy Chan, Co-opt Member of The Institute of Purchasing & Supply of Hong Kong.

Introduction of Speaker:

Ms Chan worked in CLP POWER HONG KONG LIMITED, a public utility company for over 10 years in Strategic Procurement. She had been involved in development of sustainable procurement framework and its implementation during her work experience in CLP. Before CLP, she worked for EXXONMOBIL HONG KONG LIMITED, leading Fuels & Lubes procurement operation in China, HK, Taiwan and South Korea.
